1 (Court called to order.)

2 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Mr. Press, welcome. You may 3 proceed.

4 MR. PRESS: Thank you. May it please the court, 5 Joshua Press, here on behalf of the United States. Your 6 Honors, we're here this morning based on a case where it 7 seems like no one actually wants to talk about the 8 appellant, Mr. Lunn. Mr. Lunn came here in 1985 as a 9 refugee and obtained lawful permanent resident status in 10 the early '90s.

11 Unfortunately, however, he has acquired quite a bit of 12 a criminal record since the early 2000s, and on that basis 13 was ordered deported nine years ago. Lost his lawful 14 permanent resident status and was ordered deported to 15 Cambodia. Now, based on certain Supreme Court case law and 16 federal statutes his detention was limited because Cambodia 17 would not accept him back into their country.

18 And since that time, he has been ordered on supervised 19 release as it were. Unfortunately, however, that matter of 20 grace to release him -- while on that release, he has 21 chosen to apparently commit further crimes and was again
22 arrested late last year. Now, when that happens --

23 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: That further crimes, he was 24 found not guilty.

25 MR. PRESS: Yes. I'm actually referring to other

1 crimes in California after his -- well, previously.
2 Nevertheless, when that happens -- I don't actually; I 3 don't think he was found not guilty. I think the 4 Commonwealth chose not to prosecute in this particular 5 instance.

6 JUSTICE LENK: But he was not found guilty.

7 MR. PRESS: Right, it simply --

8 JUSTICE LENK: There was not a criminal conviction in 9 Massachusetts on which he was being held.

10 MR. PRESS: Right. And there just no -- no 11 prosecution further.

12 JUSTICE LENK: While I have this opportunity, let me
13 ask you. In your brief, you refer to him repeatedly as a 14 criminal alien and yet this is an arrest on the basis of a 15 civil immigration offense.

16 MR. PRESS: Yes.

17 JUSTICE LENK: So he's not in that sense -- this is 18 not a criminal immigration offense.

19 MR. PRESS: He's a criminal alien based on his prior 20 convictions and order of removal.

21 JUSTICE LENK: That's why you refer to him that way?
22 Not by virtue of the offense itself.

23 MR. PRESS: Of the instant criminal offense that he 24 was picked up and the civil offense of violating his --

25 JUSTICE LENK: The civil -- it's the civil immigration

1 offense that is the subject of this ICE detainer, is it 2 not?

3 MR. PRESS: Yes. Nevertheless, he's still a criminal 4 alien based on his prior convictions.

5 JUSTICE CYPHER: Is criminal alien, something that's 6 defined in the federal statutes?

7 MR. PRESS: No. No. It's simply the reason why he 8 was ordered removed nine years ago.

9 JUSTICE CYPHER: So what does it mean to be a criminal 10 alien?

11 MR. PRESS: Well, essentially an alien who has 12 committed an aggravated felony, and on that basis ordered 13 removed or deported, as it were.

14 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: But you're not suggesting -- I 15 don't think, perhaps you are -- that the authority of a 16 state law enforcement officer to detain somebody depends 17 upon the reason for the detainer. That if this person were 18 being deported and had an order of deportation for reasons 19 unrelated to any prior conviction, you're not suggesting 20 that that changes the authority of the state law 21 enforcement officer to hold that person pursuant to the 22 detainer are you?

23 MR. PRESS: No. No. Of course the detainers have 24 specific identified reasons to hold --

25 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Right. Right, but it's not

1 limited to those who have been convicted of crimes.

2 MR. PRESS: No. No.

3 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: So let me ask you if there is a 4 detainer for an individual, and let's assume the sheriff 5 calls up ICE and says, "This individual for whom I have a 6 detainer is to be released at 2:00 p.m. today." And at 7 2:00 p.m., there's nobody from ICE who is there. And if 8 that sheriff, pursuant to the detainer holds that person 9 for 48 hours, what is that? What do you call that thing 10 which holds him in custody for up to 48 hours after he 11 otherwise would be released?

12 MR. PRESS: Well, that's in our view a matter of 13 comity and respecting the federal authority to process that 14 alien depending on the basis for why the detainer was 15 issued.

16 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Constitutionally you refer to it 17 simply as a matter of comity, that we're going to cooperate 18 with the state by holding somebody for up to 48 hours. You 19 don't characterize it in any Constitutional sense as a 20 seizure?

21 MR. PRESS: Well, it is a seizure and it is an arrest.

22 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Okay. So it is an arrest.

23 MR. PRESS: Yes.

24 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: All right. And do you agree
25 that there needs to be state law. There needs to be state

1 law which authorizes a state law enforcement official to 2 make that arrest?

3 MR. PRESS: Yes. Now, that will vary from state to 4 state, obviously. Certain states are much more aggressive 5 in limiting the police power and specifically the power of 6 their police and officers to make arrests.

7 JUSTICE HINES: So why isn't our state law the answer
8 to the question? They don't have the authority to do it, 9 end of story.

10 MR. PRESS: Well, we believe this is a matter of first 11 impression for this court. From our perspective all states 12 have inherent authority to, from our view, police their 13 sovereignty. And Mr. Lunn is someone who has no right to 14 be within the United States, much less the Commonwealth.
15 And he's only here -- or he was only at large as it were, 16 as a matter of grace from the federal government.

17 JUSTICE HINES: Well, let me take the focus off Mr.
18 Lunn, because when we took this case we have the right, 19 even though it's moot as to Mr. Lunn. We have the right to 20 look at the whole picture.

21 MR. PRESS: Sure.

22 JUSTICE HINES: And if this issue is capable of 23 repetition and escaping review. We're entitled to look at 24 that.

25 MR. PRESS: Sure.

1 JUSTICE HINES: And to consider the whole picture. So 2 whether Mr. Lunn is a criminal alien as you call it or 3 whatever it is, that's kind of beside the point. The real 4 issue is what can the Feds demand of the state given the 5 state of our law.

6 MR. PRESS: Well, I want to be very crystal clear 7 here. There are no federal demands being made through this 8 procedure. This is a request as a matter of comity from 9 one law enforcement agency to another to hold -- number 10 one, to provide notice of the release of that alien or 11 number two, to hold him up to 48 hours to effectuate the 12 detention and eventual removal of that alien from the 13 United States.

14 Now, there are and there will be of course, from 15 state-to-state, different restrictions placed on state 16 officers. I understand in this -- in the Commonwealth, for 17 example, 48 hours is too long. 24 hours is the rule, and 18 we have no quarrel with that. That's why in this case Mr.
19 Lunn was picked up within hours of the Commonwealth 20 declining to prosecute.

21 JUSTICE LENK: You know I'm -- as I understand in your 22 argument that you're saying that every state may do this.

23 MR. PRESS: Yes.

24 JUSTICE LENK: The federal government cannot require 25 it but every state may and that every state has the 1 authority to do it depending upon the state.

2 MR. PRESS: Yes.

3 JUSTICE LENK: The question then for us is what in our 4 state law does permit this. And I don't see anything in 5 your brief that suggests what that might be.

6 MR. PRESS: Well, we are not experts in Massachusetts 7 law and therefore we did not want to comment specifically 8 on that. I will say that the Department of Justice's 9 position on this is that inherent within the sovereignty 10 and --

11 JUSTICE LENK: Can, but we don't. I know that you're 12 saying that we can do it or every state can do it. We may 13 have the authority to do this, but the question is do we 14 have the authority under our own state law to do it. Not 15 could the legislature do this, but has it?

16 MR. PRESS: Well, I guess the question I would have 17 back to that is has it done what exactly? Now, from my 18 understanding of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, it
19 was written by John Adams essentially in 1780s --

20 JUSTICE LENK: Before the -- yes, before the federal 21 Constitution.

22 MR. PRESS: Yes, and President Adams, very good 23 draftsman, of course, did --

24 JUSTICE LENK: We like him.

25 JUSTICE GAZIANO: That's why we named the building

1 after him.

2 MR. PRESS: Right. No, we of course respect him and 3 his work.

4 JUSTICE GAZIANO: I'm glad you recognize that.

5 MR. PRESS: Yes. My understanding more specifically 6 of the Commonwealth's Constitution is that in the late
7 eighteenth century, the Commonwealth did enact statutes 8 barring certain aliens from the Commonwealth based on that 9 Constitution. And so there -- that would seem to indicate 10 that they had exercised their inherent authority derived 11 from the sovereignty that President Adams had written into 12 the Commonwealth's Constitution for such purposes. Now, 13 Arizona v. Gant and other case law has probably modified 14 that a bit.

15 JUSTICE GAZIANO: I wanted to ask you about the 16 Arizona case because what you said in response to a few 17 questions is that we have the inherent authority to police 18 our sovereignty and you conceded that the hold is an 19 arrest.

20 MR. PRESS: Yes.

21 JUSTICE GAZIANO: The Arizona case talks about federal 22 preemption and that states can't arrest aliens. So how are 23 those two thoughts consistent?

24 MR. PRESS: Right. States cannot on their own enact 25 policies to go beyond federal law. In Arizona SB1070 was

1 an extremely aggressive and essentially licensed state 2 officials on their own without federal requests for 3 assistance or any sort of direction or supervision by ICE.
4 For example to make arrests and to detain on their own and 5 then make their own investigation into that suspect's 6 citizenship status. That was well beyond what the federal 7 government had chosen to pursue. And that is why the 8 federal government brought that case.

9 JUSTICE GAZIANO: But isn't that your position, that 10 inherent authority position? So if we say that there's 11 inherent authority, our state police officers that are in 12 the back can go out under inherent authority and enforce 13 the immigration laws.

14 MR. PRESS: Not beyond the federal governments 15 direction or request for assistance, which is what we have, 16 in this case. Which is the policy, as we understand it, 17 that is being challenged? The detainers themselves are 18 requests by ICE to local officials to hold an alien based 19 on biometric information that the state has uploaded to the 20 FBI. And we have sent back to the state officials.

21 As in this case, Mr. Lunn has a final order of 22 removal. We know this because the fingerprints that were 23 obtained and then sent to the FBI and then sent to the 24 department of Homeland Security confirmed that this is the 25 person that you have in your custody. We have identified

1 him as Sreynoun Lunn.

2 Our records indicate that he was ordered removed from 3 this country nine years ago. By the way, he was out on 4 supervised release. He has not checked in. It appears 5 that he might be up to no good. He has now become a 6 priority again for deportation from this country. And 7 that's all that really happened in this case, and that's 8 really what we're talking about with the revised forms that 9 DHS has now put out.

10 JUSTICE BUDD: But just going back to what you're 11 looking from our Commonwealth to do, it sounds like you're 12 saying that we don't need any special legislation to hold a 13 criminal alien. We can just do it, is that correct?

14 MR. PRESS: Well, I would hesitate to say -- to make 15 that the sort of conclusion of criminal alien just based 16 on, as in this case there was no conviction.

17 JUSTICE BUDD: Well, anybody that you're looking to 18 have ICE detain or an ICE detainer on.

19 MR. PRESS: Right.

20 JUSTICE BUDD: We can just hold them because we've got 21 that authority, we've got that power.

22 MR. PRESS: You have that power, and as we understand 23 it, no law has circumscribed the state or the 24 Commonwealth's power to cooperate with the federal 25 government in these matters. Without having any sort of

1 identified limit, then if the Commonwealth or its officers 2 or in this case the Boston Municipal Court wants to 3 cooperate with the federal government, we don't see any 4 particular reason why that could not happen in this case.

5 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: This inherent authority, are you 6 saying that the state inherently has the ability to pass
7 legislation authorizing it? Or are you saying that there 8 is Constitutional authority in the absence of any 9 legislative act that would permit this type of arrest?

10 MR. PRESS: Well, what we're saying is that there's 11 certain room for play in the joints here and if the 12 Commonwealth wants to pursue --

13 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: What does that mean?

14 MR. PRESS: What does that mean? Well, good question.
15 If the Commonwealth wants to pursue --

16 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: I don't think John Adams used 17 that term in our Constitution.

18 JUSTICE LENK: No, he didn't.

19 MR. PRESS: Right. There were a lot of terms he never 20 used. But if the Commonwealth wants to pursue specific 21 legislation, that's one route to go. In this case, I 22 believe the Boston Municipal Court ordered his brief 23 detention until ICE could pick him up. I assume based on 24 its own inherent authority, as a court.

25 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: There may be some confusion as

1 to exactly what he did as to whether he meant he was going 2 to decline to act and that was interpreted as having 3 ordered it. But that essentially is neither here nor 4 there. But let's go back to my question as to what is this 5 thing that you say is inherent authority?

6 And I'm trying to understand whether you're saying 7 that the state has the inherent authority to enact 8 legislation authorizing state law enforcement officers to 9 make these arrests. Or whether you're saying that there is 10 inherent authority somewhere, perhaps in our Constitution, 11 perhaps elsewhere that says that these officers have that 12 authority in the absence of any legislative action.

13 MR. PRESS: Well, they have that authority, as we 14 understand it, in the absence of any specific legislative 15 authorization simply based on their being coordinate law 16 enforcement agency and their willingness to work with the 17 federal government to effectuate the removal.

18 JUSTICE HINES: Is that an arrest? Isn't that an 19 arrest so that Constitutional guarantees would apply too?
20 If the judge in the BMC said "We're done with you, we have 21 nothing else but this ICE detainer so you can't go until 22 the 48 hours are up." Now wouldn't Constitutional 23 protections attach to that?

24 MR. PRESS: Yes. Both federal and Commonwealth
25 Constitution protections. Yes.

1 JUSTICE HINES: So how is it that we can just hold 2 that person without a magistrate, without probable cause, 3 without any of that?

4 MR. PRESS: Well, that's a good question with respect
5 to the Fourth Amendment. In the immigration context, I
6 want to be very clear here. That the Supreme Court -- no 7 court has ever required a neutral and detached magistrate 8 to make immigration decisions to hold an alien or to issue 9 an immigration administration warrant.

10 JUSTICE HINES: Okay. That's immigration officials 11 not state officials, right?

12 MR. PRESS: Right. State officials can choose to 13 cooperate --

14 JUSTICE HINES: Okay. But we're talking about state 15 officials here.

16 MR. PRESS: And I'm talking about if state officials 17 choose to cooperate with the federal government based on 18 their request. They have that authority and we haven't 19 seen anything specifically taking that authority away from 20 them. From our perspective. And this is not just a matter 21 isolated to the Commonwealth; this is for all of the 22 states.

23 JUSTICE GAZIANO: You could solve this problem by 24 obtaining arrest warrants from magistrate, correct?

25 MR. PRESS: Well, not from magistrate. It would

1 depend on what you mean by magistrates. In the immigration 2 context --

3 JUSTICE GAZIANO: I understand your argument, but as 4 we talked about in the last argument or the last lawyer, 5 there are lots of states -- and you saw the laundry list of 6 them -- that say we're not going to do this absent a 7 warrant. And it's now -- its incumbent upon Department of 8 Homeland Security to seek criminal warrants when they want 9 -- when they really want people, correct? Is that's what 10 is happening around the country?

11 MR. PRESS: There is no mechanism for criminal 12 warrants, as it were, issued by either a magistrate judge 13 or district court judge or anything like that. These have 14 always been -- I mean for decades administrative warrants 15 issued by supervisors at ICE and before that supervisors in 16 INS.

17 JUSTICE GAZIANO: I guess the question I'm asking you 18 is what's happening in all these other states that have 19 already said we're not going to cooperate?

20 MR. PRESS: What is happening?

21 JUSTICE GAZIANO: Yeah.

22 MR. PRESS: Well, the federal government is currently 23 working with them to try to facilitate better cooperation.
24 I know that Secretary Kelly is currently meeting with -- by 25 currently I mean recently has met with multiple city and

1 local officials on this issue to try to encourage better 2 cooperation with the local enforcement agencies.

3 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Let's go back to inherent 4 authority.

5 MR. PRESS: Sure.

6 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: I'm trying to understand its 7 limits. It's limited to immigration? It's not with regard 8 to criminal matters?

9 MR. PRESS: No. Local agencies can also cooperate 10 with --

11 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: If an FBI agent calls up 12 somebody and says, I know you're about release John Smith.
13 I think he committed a bank robbery. I don't have a 14 warrant. I don't have a criminal complaint, but I want 15 you to hold him for two days until I can get there. There 16 is authority to do that because of comity?

17 MR. PRESS: Well, in this case we have an order of 18 removal. The more appropriate analog would be an order of 19 conviction and judgment. And an order of directing -- or I
20 guess I suppose a request asking that the FBI can pick them 21 up to bring them into federal custody to effectuate that 22 judgment.

23 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Well, certainly, if you had a 24 court order you could -- pursuant to interstate agreement 25 on detainers -- you could do it. But you don't have any

1 judicial officer involved in this, you have an ICE officer 2 who is certifying this. Not even certifying it, just 3 declaring it. It's not under oath.

4 MR. PRESS: Well, we did have an immigration judge in 5 2008 ordered him removed, and he never chose to appeal that 6 decision.

7 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: All right. So now, let's just 8 -- at the end of the 20, 48 hours, you say maybe 24 hours, 9 ICE doesn't show up. The authority ends?

10 MR. PRESS: Yes.

11 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: And that person who was arrested 12 then becomes un-arrested?

13 MR. PRESS: Yes.

14 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Any documentation to reflect the 15 fact that he had been arrested and un-arrested?

16 MR. PRESS: No. From our perspective, if he re-
17 offends and this sort of process comes up all over again 18 and ICE chooses to pick him up that would be one thing or 19 ICE could make an arrest in the field if they still have 20 probable cause to believe that that person is a removable 21 alien. There are a whole host of factors that could come 22 into that decision making process.

23 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Is there any, is there any other 24 under our state law -- is there any other context that 25 would permit the state law enforcement officer to arrest

1 somebody then un-arrest him 48 hours and there be no record
2 of that arrest and that un-arrest?

3 MR. PRESS: Well, from my understanding -- limited
4 understand of Massachusetts case law, brief arrests do 5 occur and perhaps they don't get processed. Those 6 individuals don't get booked but people are arrested 7 temporarily then released.

8 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: For 24 to 48 hours?

9 MR. PRESS: Well, 48 hours obviously would be 10 problematic.

11 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: But that's what the detainer 12 asks for.

13 MR. PRESS: That is what the detainer asks for as a 14 maximum as a ceiling, yes. It does not ask for anything 15 more than that. That's to comply with the Constitutional 16 boundaries. The federal Constitutional boundaries.

17 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: And just to be clear, with 18 regard to a sheriff who has a detainer and says I would 19 prefer not to make that telephone call to ICE at 2:00 p.m.
20 I simply don't wish to do that. There is nothing unlawful 21 about that sheriff choosing not to honor that detainer?

22 MR. PRESS: There's nothing Constitutionally 23 offensive. I do want to emphasize that --

24 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Is there anything -- the 25 question was whether it's unlawful for that sheriff to not

1 honor that detainer which you characterize as a voluntary 2 request?

3 MR. PRESS: No. The sheriff would not be violating 4 any criminal or civil immigration laws in that respect.
5 There would of course be friction if this were done as a 6 matter of policy. That's what we're trying to prevent.
7 That's why Secretary Kelly, for example, is going around 8 the country trying to encourage more local enforcement
9 agencies to work with the Department of Homeland Security 10 in these matters.

11 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Okay. But I'm not speaking 12 about friction or comity. I'm asking whether it's unlawful 13 and I gather the answer is no. It's not unlawful to do 14 that.

15 MR. PRESS: No. That would present a different Tenth 16 Amendment concerns than really what our issue here.

17 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Meaning that if it were not 18 voluntary, there would be a Tenth Amendment concern for 19 essentially the commandeering of state law enforcement 20 officers to make arrests at the request of a federal 21 officer?

22 MR. PRESS: Yes. Yes. Nevertheless, the issue of 23 cooperation is an important one both to the Commonwealth 24 and to the United States. It's not uncommon for DHS to 25 hold aliens and then for the Commonwealth to ask that ICE

1 facilitate their return to Commonwealth custody 2 temporarily, for example to testify in a criminal trial or 3 things of that nature.

4 JUSTICE GAZIANO: There's a process that accompanies 5 that though right. There's a subpoena, there legal 6 process?

7 MR. PRESS: Yes. And that's what we're trying to do 8 now with the new I form 247-A to have administrative 9 warrants accompany the detainer request themselves to 10 provide assurance to local enforcement agencies such that 11 that adequate process or that adequate levels of process
12 are being gone through to assure the local enforcement 13 agencies.

14 JUSTICE CYPHER: Who issues those administrative 15 warrants specifically?

16 MR. PRESS: ICE supervisors.

17 JUSTICE CYPHER: ICE supervisors. They're not 18 judicial officers?

19 MR. PRESS: Well, they're not judicial magistrates if 20 that's what you're asking. And that sort of goes to the 21 decades of case law on this specific issue.

22 JUSTICE CYPHER: But they're not -- they are ICE
23 officials. They're not judicial, they're not magistrates, 24 they're not in the court system.

25 MR. PRESS: Right. One other important wrinkle to 1 that -- I also want to note that immigration judges 2 themselves work for the Department of Justice. They are 3 executive officials.

4 JUSTICE LENK: Not Article Three judges. They're not 5 Article Three judges.

6 MR. PRESS: Correct. Neither are in fact most 7 magistrate judges within the federal court system.
8 Nevertheless, we do want to continue to have a cooperative 9 relationship with the Commonwealth. That's extremely 10 important to the United States and that's why we've chosen 11 to come here today and I thank you for the honor.

12 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Before you go, let me just make 13 clear, make sure I understand your position. Let us 14 imagine that you prevail here today. And let us imagine 15 that we say that there is inherent authority for a sheriff 16 or law enforcement officer to hold somebody for up to 24 or 17 48 hours.

18 And let's imagine the state legislature were to say 19 "No, we expressly do not give that authority. We basically 20 say they have no such authority." Are you in the same 21 position? Is the inherent authority, such that it can be 22 -- it cannot be overridden by a state legislature?

23 MR. PRESS: That would present different preemption 24 issues more akin to the Arizona case. Of course, in the 25 Arizona case the problem was over-aggressive enforcement.

1 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: This is a stamp legislation, 2 which is saying we don't want law enforcement officers to 3 at all be involved in this.

4 MR. PRESS: -- would not cooperate.

5 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: How would that involve a 6 preemption issue?

7 MR. PRESS: Well, that would be an affirmance by the 8 General Court to not cooperate in any manner with --

9 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: Oh, no. No. I'm just saying 10 not -- didn't say not cooperate, they simply would say that 11 do not authorize the arrest of these individuals which is 12 the issue before us today.

13 MR. PRESS: So the overdetection?

14 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: The -- what you have conceded is 15 effectively an arrest.

16 MR. PRESS: Yes.

17 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: With regard to a civil 18 immigration matter, they would say we do, we express -- if 19 there was any doubt before we make it quite clear that we 20 do not grant state law enforcement officers that authority.
21 They do not have the authority to make those arrests.

22 They can continue to call up ICE and say in my 23 example, at 2:00 p.m. we're going to release him if you 24 wish to be here you -- he'll be released at that time.
25 That's fine. But the state legislature in my hypothetical

1 says we do not wish to grant state law enforcement officers 2 that authority.

3 Does that -- is your position same that the state
4 legislation cannot do that? Or is it your view that it 5 can?

6 MR. PRESS: Well, depending on the specifics of your 7 hypothetical I don't want to quarrel with it. I think that 8 that would probably be okay under the currently existing 9 federal case law. If that were simply a prohibition on the 10 overdeterrence level of cooperation.

11 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: So you're saying then that this 12 inherent authority is essentially an implicit, that the 13 legislation implicitly or through some other means has 14 implicitly given that authority that we must discern 15 something that the legislation has done which has given 16 them that authority.

17 MR. PRESS: Well, yes. That's why it's inherent.
18 It's -- and that's sort of --

19 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: You say inherent. Inherent in 20 what? Inherent in our Constitution, inherent in natural 21 law, where does the inherency come from?

22 MR. PRESS: It's within the Constitution itself and 23 the concept of sovereignty that was at play in the 24 eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. It's more --

25 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: And where, point to me where in 1 John Adams' Constitution we should look for that.

2 MR. PRESS: Well, that's not there specifically from 3 my understanding. Just as it's not specifically in the 4 federal Constitution either. The concept of sovereignty 5 and the preliminary power, authority that's the basis for 6 federal immigration authority has been read in simply as a 7 matter of understanding of what sovereignty was derived 8 from the people, which is in the Massachusetts Constitution 9 and is in the United States Constitution.

10 CHIEF JUSTICE GANTS: All right. Thank you.

11 MR. PRESS: No further questions. Thank you.
